The following categories describe the different ways in which we may use and disclose your IIHI.

1. Treatment. Our practice or the people who work for our practice – including, but not limited to, our doctors and nurses - may use or disclose your IIHI in order to treat you or to assist others in your treatment. This includes coordination or management of your health care with a third party who already has obtained your permission to have access to your IIHI, i.e. other physicians who may be treating you such as specialists to whom you have been referred, home health agencies, or hospital emergency room personnel. It might include laboratories to obtain test results for use in treating you or pharmacies in order to get prescriptions for you. Additionally, we may disclose your IIHI to others who may assist in your care, such as your spouse, children or parents.

2. Payment. Our practice may use and disclose your IIHI in order to bill and collect payment for the services and items you may receive from us. For example, we may contact your health insurer to certify that you are eligible for benefits (and for what range of benefits), and we may provide your insurer with details regarding your treatment to determine if your insurer will cover, or pay for, your treatment. We also may use and disclose your IIHI to obtain payment from third parties that may be responsible for such costs, such as family members, or disclose same to a collection agency if necessary to secure payment. Also, we may use your IIHI to bill you directly for services and items.

3. Health Care Operations. Our practice may use and disclose your IIHI to operate our business. As examples of the ways in which we may use and disclose your information for our operations, our practice may use your IIHI to evaluate the quality of care you received from us, or to conduct cost-management and business planning activities for our practice. We may use a sign-in sheet at the front desk or call you by name in the waiting room when the physician is ready to see you. Our practice may use and disclose your IIHI to contact you and remind you of an appointment. We may post holiday photographs or cards or similar which you have sent to our office, unless requested not to do so by you. We may share your IIHI with third party "business associates" that perform various activities for the practice such as billing services, answering or paging services. Whenever such an arrangement between our office and a business associate includes the use or disclosure of your IIHI, we will have a written contract that contains terms that will protect the privacy of your IIHI.
